

RUST COMPANIES MUST REPORT TO STATE WEEKLY

Superintendent of Banking
Orders Summary Outside of Bank Statement.

WANTS TRUE CONDITION

Clearing-House Not Sufficient to Embrace Entire Financial Coterie.

Clark Williams, State Superintendent of Banking, today requested the eighty-eight trust companies and two hundred and two State banks of New York to furnish him with a summary of their condition at the close of business on Friday of each week. Mr. Williams will issue his first supplemental bank statement simultaneously with the Clearing House bank statement at noon, one week from today.

Here is the summary.

Average amount of loans, bills purchased and investments (except real estate), (loans, bills purchased, stocks and bonds and mortgages owned by the Trust Company).

Average amount of specie (gold and silver coin, United States and foreign bank notes and certificates and United States silver certificates).

Average amount of legal tenders and bank notes (United States legal tender notes of all issues and notes or bills issued by any lawfully organized national banking association).

Average amount of bonds in lawful money reserve (bonds of the United States, bonds of the State of New York and bonds issued in compliance with law by any city of the first or second class within the State of New York, computed at par value, the absolute property of the company).

Average amount due from reserve depositories in New York City (monies on deposit subject to call in any bank or trust company in this State, having a capital of at least $100,000, or a capital and surplus of $50,000, and approved by the Superintendent of Banks, less off-sets).

Average amount due from reserve depositories outside of New York City, less off-sets.

Average amount due from other New York City banks and trust companies (monies on deposit subject to call in any New York City bank or trust company, not a reserve depository).

Average amount due from other town banks and trust companies (monies on deposit subject to call in banks or trust companies outside of New York City, less off-sets).

Average amount of deposits (Gross deposits and unpaid dividends, less checks and demand drafts on other New York City banks and trust companies and amounts due from other banks and trust companies).

Mr. Williams' position is that the present Clearing House weekly bank statement does not represent the true financial condition of the greater city, as all of the trust companies and a number of State banks are not in the Clearing-House. His supplemental statement will prevent any further hoisting of values in the statement by the influence of the bank statement, which could formerly be made good or bad, as the case may be, by the transfer of funds in or out of the Clearing House.

FIVE SENSELESS AFTER FALL ON LIPTON YACHT

GLASGOW, Feb. 1.—William Eife, the yacht designer, was severely injured at the shipyard at Fairlie yesterday and is in a critical condition. While supervising the construction of Sir Thomas Lipton's new racing yacht he fell from the deck into the hold.

Mr. Eife struck his head and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he was still in a coma-fine state today.

THE SONG OF THE POSTAGE STAMP

As a message stamp, please know, sir,
I come from a family renowned.
The details of our history
I would take long to relate.
You find it interesting, I take
If I should sing a song
About the various messages
That we have passed along.
We've carried tales of tragedy,
Of politics and love,
About most every thing, in fact,
'Twixt earth and stars above.
But of all these messages,
The one I wish to take
The greatest prize is those of
The Morning World "Want" males.
We carry thousands of them
To the World each week
From many who for positions,
Homes, Loans and Workers seek.
'Tis when we bear these "Want"
Ads.
To the Sunday World we feel
That we may share the credit
For doing some good deed.
So let us take your "Want" Ad.
To the Sunday World to-day
If you're in need of anything.
We'll speed it on its way.

Sir Oliver Lodge's Declaration that He Has Had Messages from the Dead Recalls Mrs. Piper's Powers, Even if Celestial Wiretappers Are at Work

Prof. Funk Satisfied the Medium Is All
Right, but Has Some Doubts
About the Spirits.

MRS. PIPER A "TRANSMITTER"

Prof. Hyslop Is More Convinced, and Says He Has Talked With Some of the Spirits Himself.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Funk, author of "The Widow's Mite" and "The Psychic Riddle," who has been prominently before the public for many years as an investigator of psychic phenomena. With Prof. Prof. William James, of Harvard, the original discoverer of Mrs. Piper's mediumistic powers, Dr. Funk declares the woman who has been described as the human telephone to be beyond all possible doubt a guileless transmitter of what seem to be messages from departed spirits.

Believes in Medium, Doubts Spirits. But while Sir Oliver Lodge, Prof. Hyslop and Prof. James believe that the messages actually come from the spirits claiming to transmit them, Dr. Funk is more sceptical and concedes merely that certain "foreign intelligences" have spoken through Mrs. Piper and other genuine mediums.

He declared yesterday that we have no positive proof that these spirits are what they purport to be. He thinks there may be celestial wire-tappers who get on the line of communication between the spirit and the material world, or spiritual confidence men who deliberately misrepresent themselves as spirits of our departed friends. It was not in such frivolous phraseology that Dr. Funk voiced this view.

"We cannot assume," he said to me yesterday, "that all foreign intelligences, usually termed spirits, are good and truthful any more than they would be justified in concluding that all men were incapable of deceit."
"A medium like Mrs. Piper has no more moral quality than a telegraph wire. She simply transmits messages, good or bad, truthful or untruthful."
"Mrs. Piper has been so exhaustively investigated here and in England, twenty years that all suspicion of fraud evidence than the mere statement that the person talking at the other end of the telephone is Jones. Of course I may know, or think I know, Jones's voice. But in spirit communications this is not possible to know."

If a man calls me up on the long-distance telephone and says he is John Jones, talking from Washington, D. C., and the message is of no particular importance, I am apt to say "I was talking with John Jones in Washington just now." But if a matter of great moment is involved I must require other evidence than the mere statement that the person talking at the other end of the telephone is Jones. Of course I may know, or think I know, Jones's voice. But in spirit communications this is not possible to know."

Sir Oliver Lodge Has No Doubts.

"Sir Oliver Lodge says: 'On the question of the life hereafter the excavators are engaged in boring a tunnel from the opposite end. We are beginning to hear the strokes of the pickaxe of our comrades on the other side.'"
"But," added Dr. Funk, smiling, "we must hear more than the pickaxe. We must hear beyond any possibility of doubt the construction of the tunnel."
Prof. Hyslop is distinctly more convinced than Dr. Funk. Indeed, when he read the announcement that Sir Oliver Lodge had talked through Mrs. Piper with the spirit of Prof. Hodgson and two others, the former professor of logic at Columbia said:
"Only ignorant people now doubt that Mrs. Piper and such as she can communicate with the spirit world. I have talked with Hodgson and Myers, one of the other spirits mentioned, myself."
When telepathy was suggested to Prof. Hyslop as the explanation of Mrs. Piper's powers, he said:
"Telepathy explains nothing. It is only a name for a type of facts which requires explanation. What their cause is we do not yet know."

Telepathy, Says Mrs. Piper. Yet it is to telepathy that Mrs. Piper herself attributed her powers. In a statement made before she went to England she said:
"I must truthfully say that I do not believe that spirits of the dead have spoken through me when I have been in the trance state, as investigated by Prof. Hyslop at the explanation of Mrs. Piper's powers, he said:
"Telepathy explains nothing. It is only a name for a type of facts which requires explanation. What their cause is we do not yet know."

MANIAC SLASHES FOUR WITH RAZOR ON TROLLEY CAR

In Sudden Frenzy, Cuts One
Passenger's Nose Half
Off His Face.

With only a vague description to help them the Williamsburg police are hunting for a dangerous young man who made an attempt to butcher the passengers in a Myrtle avenue car to-day with a razor. Before he escaped he inflicted serious wounds upon two passengers and cut the conductor and motor-man.

The car was in charge of Conductor Charles Norton, bound for Ridgewood. At 3 o'clock this morning it stopped at Bedford avenue, and a good-looking, neatly clad young man got on. There were about a dozen passengers, mostly men, in the car.

The young man carefully unbuttoned his coat, shook the snow from his hat, turned down and brushed his collar. When he had arranged his clothing he glanced across the car and fixed his gaze on Conrad Lanz, a young man who lives in Maspeth.

Cut Passenger's Nose Off. Suddenly and without warning he whipped a razor from his pocket and leaped at Lanz's throat. The blade fell on the unfortunate young man's nose and cut half of it off. Then, snarling like an animal, the madman cut and slashed until the Maspeth man fell at his feet, bleeding from a dozen wounds. The other passengers in the car were spellbound with terror, and two women who pushed for the door swooned at the motor-man's feet.

Peter Ackerman, of No. 65 Bushwick avenue, who had struck at the young man in an effort to save Lanz, drew his attention and fury. With the strength of four men the maniac seized Ackerman about the throat and tripped him, and as he fell slashed his cheeks and forehead opened with the razor. Conductor Norton then came to the rescue, but he proved no match for the bloodthirsty passenger, who desperately sought to cut his throat. In defending his throat from the attack Norton's wrist was laid open, the razor blade ripping through his overcoat sleeve.

Meanwhile the motor-man had armed himself with the controller and broke handle and rushed into the car. The madman was struggling with the conductor on the platform, but the moment he saw the motor-man advancing he dropped the razor and leaped from the car, disappearing in the storm through North avenue.

No Policeman Near. Lanz had fainted from loss of blood by this time and Ackerman was in a bad way. No policeman was in sight, but a passenger managed to break into a house and telephone to the Cumberland Street Hospital. Two ambulances responded, and the injured men were hurried away in one of them, the second surgeon remaining to sew up the conductor's wound.

The madman had vanished with such precipitation that no effort was made to follow him. When at last a policeman from the Bedford avenue station arrived at the car, none of the passengers who remained could give an accurate description of the maniac. Their terror seemed to have paralyzed their memories.

Conductor Norton said the man appeared to be about twenty-six years old, was smooth shaven and neatly dressed in a dark suit and overcoat. A half dozen detectives were sent out through the district, but could get no trace of the slasher. The police fear the madman may be heard from again, as the same tragic fashion. Consequently the cars will be closely watched and detectives will be kept up the line in the Williamsburg section to ride on the various trolley lines.

SPIRITUAL KISS WINS IN COURT; "GHOSTERS" FREE

Assistant District-Attorney Not Prepared to Charge
Insanity.

The spiritual kiss—which has it on the soul, operative or common variety in many different ways—went vibrating and pulsating through the corridors of the Criminal Court Building to-day when the Holy Ghosters, who were arrested yesterday in their rooms by Lieut. Flood and charged with disorderly conduct, were released from custody by Magistrate Corrigan in the Tombs Police Court.

Not till a policeman and a nightstick put a stop to it did the frenzied oscillation of the Holy Ghosters and their friends cease. The kiss is delivered in a kneeling posture and according to hardened veterans of the courts, it is the "limit." The discharged prisoners are: Babel Collins, twenty years old; Anna Doak, twenty-one; Bertha Redberger, twenty-one; Robert Calbert, twenty-seven; Thomas O'Reilly, thirty, and Frank Pendleton, twenty-eight.

Comstock Their Accuser. The party faces of the men prisoners took on a yellow hue as Anthony Comstock and Assistant District-Attorney Krotel appeared to prosecute them. The women seemed oblivious to the presence of the two and kept their eyes glued on their unwholesome-looking leaders.

Comstock told the Magistrate that he had received a letter from Mabel Collins's mother in Philadelphia asking him, "for God's sake," to rescue her daughter from the fanatic.

Magistrate Corrigan called the girl, who is rather pretty, but has a wild, frightened look, and asked her why she didn't go home.

"It is God's wish that I should be here," she replied, while O'Reilly and his converts murmured: "O'eddy bless you, sister."

Insanity or Freedom. "I will have to let these persons go," said the Magistrate to the District-Attorney and Mr. Comstock, "unless you will prefer a charge of insanity against them. Then I will send them to Bellevue for examination."

Neither Comstock nor Mr. Krotel was prepared to go as far as this, however, and the released women were held yesterday in $50 bail each by Magistrate Butts, were discharged.

In the corridor outside were two scores or more of negroes, who greeted their Holy Ghosting brethren and sisters with loud groans of joy. Then the spirit kiss broke from the crowd and ran down the corridor to bless the Magistrate and Edward Carpel, his attorney.

SUBWAY TRAFFIC HELD UP BY DEFECTIVE FUSE.

Accident Near Grand Central Station Stops Express Service for a While.

Through the blowing out of a fuse on a southbound Subway express train near the Grand Central Station at 10 A. M., to-day traffic on that track was stopped for twenty minutes. The accident caused a big jam on the Fourteenth street platform, and the police aided the interborough passengers in keeping the crowd in order.

KNICKERBOCKER DEPOSITORS GET TWO WEEKS MORE

Court Extends Time for Obtaining Assents of Minority to Reopening Plan.

The Satterlee Depositors' Committee of the Knickerbocker Trust Company was to-day granted two additional weeks to secure the assents of the remaining small minority that has not signed the reorganization agreement by Justice Clark in the Richmond County Supreme Court on Staten Island.

The Court announced that the matter must be definitely settled on Feb. 15th. Julien T. Davies and Herbert L. Satterlee, for the Depositors' Committee, wanted three weeks additional time. Deputy Attorney-General De Ford said that he believed two weeks would be sufficient. He assured the Court that the Attorney-General is in full accord with the reorganization plan, but believes that a delay beyond two weeks in deciding whether or not to make the temporary receivers permanent would be unwise.

The Court said that he felt that the indications point to a reorganization of business. He believed, he said, that the obligation of securing a "practical unanimity" of assents would be carried out by the committee. Justice Clark said:

GLAD TO BE HOME
Soldier Appreciates the Right
Kind of Food.

A soldier's life, especially the U. S. soldier in the tropics, is often full of hardship, as much on account of improper food as of climate or the enemy's bullets.

"I entered the service," writes an Okla. man, "for duty in the Philippines, and at time of enlistment was healthy, weighing 150 lbs.
"Food improperly prepared, along with the tropical climate, soon caused my health to fall, so that when I returned to San Francisco to be mustered out I weighed only 110 lbs. and was much reduced in strength."

"On arrival we were issued what is called a convalescence ration, but it did not seem to build me up, and after a time I concluded to try Grape-Nuts. After using it for two weeks I showed improvement, and I was glad to be home where I could get the proper food."

"I have been using Grape-Nuts ever since and heartily recommend it to all soldiers returning from the Philippines, or to any person suffering from indigestion and loss of vigor."

"The U. S. Government would do well to include Grape-Nuts in their convalescence ration for soldiers who have become sick or run down from service in a tropical climate."
Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in plugs. "There's a Reason."

Further that Superintendent of Banks Williams has fully endorsed the reorganization and re-opening plan, and that this endorsement should have its effects in persuading the recalcitrant depositors to get into line.

DROWNED, AND CRUISER'S CREW UNABLE TO AID.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—William Fred Hellmanna, an ordinary seaman on the cruiser California, was drowned yesterday full of wine, the whole ship's company. The California is lying at anchor at the Vallejo straits and a strong ebb tide was running when Hellmanna fell overboard and was carried away. He went down before anybody could aid him.

SAYS RHEUMATISM WILL GO FOREVER

Directions to Mix a Recipe
Said to Overcome Dread Disease Promptly.

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to seek up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism. A well-known specialist, who has probably treated more cases of rheumatism than any one else, and who is also the most successful, gives the following simple treatment, which is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three vegetable ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.
